AAA Survey Shows Local Drop in War Crops

ACREAGE HIT BY FEARED LACK OF HARVEST HELP

Soy Beans Increase, But Sweet Corn, Potatoes, Peas Decline

CANNERS OPTIMISTIC

Production Expected To Be Enough To Meet General Demand

With Pickaway county farmers apparently fearing that shortage of labor will prevent their harvesting some crops this year, Pickaway county AAA office declared Friday that in only one war crop—soybeans—will an increase be made in the amount of acreage planted in comparison with 1942.

AAA reporters have completed their check up in the Pickaway county area, 1,696 farms being surveyed, this number covering 82 percent of the crop land. Appraisals of war crop production were made on the remaining 18 percent of the crop land.

Soy Beans Popular

Soybean acreage for 1943 will total 16,494, a total of 4,421 acres above the amount planted in 1942, or 37 percent.

AAA officials point out that soybeans are more easily harvested than other war crops, including peas for canning, commercial potatoes, lima beans and corn, for canning.

The pea acreage this year will be only 67 percent of the total planted last year for canning purposes, 770 acres being reported to the AAA office compared with 1,149 a year ago. Despite this slash, canneries have informed the AAA office that the supply of peas will be sufficient to meet their needs.

Potatoes Decline

Commercial potato acreage in 1942 totaled 148, but in 1943 only 103 acres, a reduction of 33 percent will be planted.

Planting of lima beans for canning purposes takes a greater drop than any other commodity, 56 percent, with only 83 acres being planted compared with 185 a year ago.

Corn for canning purposes is down 29 percent, 1943 plantings amounting to 2,894 acres, while 8,741 acres were planted a year ago.

The AAA survey, a complete report of which was forwarded Friday to the Ohio AAA office, shows that allotment crops, including Indian corn and wheat will run nearly the same as last year. Corn planting, according to the report, will be four percent above last year, with 58,612 acres to be planted. Last year 56,559 acres were planted under government crop control programs.

Wheat Drops

Wheat will be down three percent from 39,624 acres to 38,319. However, prospects for the 1943 harvest are not so good as they were a year ago. Winter freezes and generally adverse weather are believed to have cut the wheat crop to about half.

AAA survey shows that swine production in 1943 will be 32 percent above 1942, that poultry will be about 20 percent ahead of 1942 and that cattle production will jump about three percent.

WAR LOAN DRIVE BOOSTED $30,750

State Invests Funds And Credits County With Proportionate Share

Pickaway county's Second War Loan Drive was given a $30,750 boost Friday when State Treasurer Don H. Ebright announced that the state had invested $15,000,000 in War Bonds and that each county is receiving a proportionate credit.

Credits to the various counties are determined by their comparative population.

The purchase was made from surplus funds of the retirement systems and the Ohio Industrial Commission. State officials followed the same system in their purchase as was followed Monday when the Pickaway county commissioners bought $50,000 worth of treasury securities with surplus.

Securities bought by the state, and by Pickaway county also, were 7% percent treasury certificates of indebtedness.

Ebright said that an additional $21,000,000 will be invested also in government bonds, each county to receive its proportionate share of credit.

Clark Will, local drive chairman, expects to announce Saturday an-

SABOTAGE LAID TO MEN SEEKING HIGHER WAGES

WASHINGTON, April 16—Edgar Hoover, director of the FBI, announced today that seven workers had been arrested "for committing sabotage" on U. S. Liberty cargo ships under construction at the Bethlehem, Fairfield shipyards near Baltimore, Md.

Hoover stated that the FBI investigation failed to disclose "any Axis direction or sympathies" on the part of the alleged saboteurs. Those arrested "are American-born laborers in the shipyards," he said.

They have admitted performing faulty welding in order to finish their work in a hurry and earn more money," Hoover added.

This was the first occasion that a number of workers in an American shipyard have been arrested for alleged violation of sabotage laws, although there have been single instances previously where such acts have been uncovered.

According to the FBI director, five of the men were arrested in Baltimore and two others were rounded up in Ohio and North Carolina.

Coal Miners Must Not Cease Operation, Says Government Spokesman

CLEVELAND, April 16—As the soft coal wage negotiations remained deadlocked a government spokesman today warned that mines in the United States must be kept in full operation continuously throughout every month of 1943 to provide coal to meet present estimates of the nation's war-expanded requirements.

While not mentioning the current coal negotiations in New York, the spokesman, Thomas J. Thomas, associate deputy solid fuels coordinator, said that "we shall have no surplus capacity in 1943 to allow for any serious lag in production."

"Our coal production, transportation and distribution facilities have a definitely limited capacity under existing conditions of manpower and equipment," Thomas told members of the National Fuel Credit Association gathered for their sixth annual membership meeting and credit conference. "The top of that capacity, utilized throughout the year, is close to our estimated requirements."

Thomas said that at least 600,000,000 tons of bituminous and approximately 65,000,000 tons of anthracite coal are expected to be required this year.

"Mine output, transportation and distribution of coal must be maintained at the very highest rate that existing conditions will permit every month in the year," he declared.

Manpower losses and difficulties in securing equipment and supplies, Thomas said, are gradually diminishing the coal industry's ability to supply coal. These shortages, he added, affect the entire industry from the producer to the retail dealer.

Thomas revealed that a joint government-industry program is being prepared to promote the early ordering of coal as it can be made available throughout the Summer months. He said that the program will require the full co-

LONDON, April 16—Two American soldiers who "bought" a barrage balloon from a civilian so that they could float it over their heads up to today the fact that they had overlooked an important detail in making the purchase.

The soldiers, according to the army newspaper Stars and Stripes, had just emerged from one of the popular English pubs when the barrage balloon caught their fancy. They were, it seems, slightly "pub-happy."

An obliging civilian "sold" them the balloon, but the ground crew in charge refused to make delivery.

The soldiers returned to their camp balloonless, but wiser. Next time they'll consult the ground crew first.

According to the FBI director, five of the men were arrested in Baltimore and two others were rounded up in Ohio and North Carolina.

23 CONVICTS BREAK PRISON

Desperate Long Termers Overpower Guards, Flee By Auto

REIDSVILLE, Ga., April 16—Twenty-three desperate, long-term convicts escaped from Tattanall State Prison near Reidsville at 1:30 a. m. today in one of the biggest mass prison breaks in Georgia's history.

One of the 23 surrendered to officers in Reidsville, and another was captured at Lyons, prison authorities revealed.

Royal K. Mann, chairman of the State Prison Commission, said the prisoners overpowered three guards, stole the prison keys and opened the doors.

He declined to give further details of the break, saying that an investigation of the circumstances is under way.

The fugitives, who made their getaway in two big red trucks and an automobile, were said by highway patrolmen and prison officials to be well armed. The automobile was found abandoned a short time after the break.

Included in the group were Forrest Turner, about 27, and Leiland Harvey, 35, both long-termers who have numerous escapes charged to their prison records.

A wide-spread manhunt, with every available highway patrolman and other law enforcement officer participating, immediately was launched.

The alarm quickly was broadcast through Georgia, and notices of the break were sent to surrounding states.

It was the seventh escape from Georgia prisons for Turner, an elusive long-terminer. In his last escape about a year ago he was captured in a vacant house four miles north of Collins, Ga., while awaiting the return of another prisoner who had broken into a store at Collins to obtain food and clothes. Turner suffered a gunshot wound in the shoulder in his last escape.

Harvey, one of Georgia's most notorious prisoners, made a brief bid for freedom last December. He was captured at Lagrange three days after his escape when officers opened fire on a car in which he and a companion were riding.

Describing his vessel's trip to Puerto Rico, Lacson said:

"It was about five o'clock when we saw what appeared to be a sailing ship. We thought it was a fishing vessel. Then suddenly its sail dropped and in a few seconds the ship began to submerge, heading in our direction. It kept on its course until it was close enough to observe the guns on our deck. Then it pointed down abruptly. We depth-charged, but didn't see any more of the sub."

Lacson's ship was formerly a pleasure craft owned by the Philippines' resident commissioner in Washington, Joaquin Miguel Elizalde. Anchored in the Potomac river near Washington when war broke out, it was turned over to the United States government by its owner. The present crew consists mostly of Filipino members of the coast guard reserve.

England And Russia May Not Aid In Pacific War, Kentuckian Declares

WASHINGTON, April 16—Sen. A. B. Chandler, of Kentucky, today appealed to government and military leaders to give Gen. Douglas MacArthur enough planes, men and munitions "to carry the fight" to Japan in the southwest Pacific. Chandler warned that Russia and England may leave this country to fight alone against the Japs once Germany is crushed.

At the same time, the senator, an administration Democrat who headed a special congressional committee which investigated American defense in Alaska, told the senate that the Japs have built airfields on Attu and Kiska in the Aleutians from which they can bomb west coast cities and possibly invade the American continent.

Chandler, picking his words slowly and carefully, disclosed that at long last—reinforcements may be rushed to MacArthur, whom he described as "a magnificent gentleman and a real fighting man."

"I have just been informed that the secretary of war has promised General MacArthur all of the planes he needs," Chandler said adding that he hopes Stimson could keep his promise.

"The secretary of war is an able, courageous, outstanding American," Chandler asserted. "I sincerely hope with God's help he is able to keep that promise. I do not minimize in any way the difficulties involved in this fight. I would like, however, for every citizen of the country to realize the gravity of this situation."

Today's VICTORY GARDEN-GRAPH

Growing Pickles in Victory Garden

By DEAN HALLIDAY
Released by Central Press Association

WITH POINT rationing presenting problems in the economical preparation of meals with tasty variety the growing of pickles and relishes in the Victory garden seems at least part of the answer. This also means the planting and cultivation of the succulent cucumber.

In order to have extra early cucumbers the seeds should be started indoors about the middle of April. Since cucumbers do not transplant easily it is good practice to start them in paper cups as shown in the accompanying Garden-Graph. When the seedlings are ready to be planted out of doors cut off the bottom of the paper cup but leave the paper sides intact around the ball of earth, and plant cup and seedlings as one. Do not plant outdoors, however, until all danger of frost is past.

For early small varieties of cucumbers have the hills four feet apart each way. For the large late cucumbers plant the hills farther apart, four by six feet is usually ample spacing.

The late cucumber seeds can be planted in circular hills about one foot in diameter. Cucumbers are heavy feeders and placing one or two shovelfuls of manure in the bottom of each hill gives the plants wonderful stimulation.

Place four inches of soil over the manure and plant the seeds one-half inch deep, 10 or 12 to each hill. After the young plants are making good growth, thin them out and leave only four of the sturdiest to each hill, as illustrated.

Later the head of the Argentine rail union wrote to Jim Carey of the CIO a glowing report of the visit, hoped that more U. S. business men would follow Johnston's example.

Johnston also called upon the Argentine Cardinal. At first a bit suspicious, he finally warmed up, became most cordial and gave Johnston letters of introduction to leading clerics in other countries.

The Cardinal's chief complaint was that the United States seemed to have communistic tendencies.

"My answer to that," said Johnston, "is the answer given me by a representative of Amtorg, the Russian trading company, who said, 'How can you have communism in a country where every capitalist is once removed from the proletariat, and where every proletarian has ambitions to become a capitalist?'" to use its influence with the high officials of our government and those who are in charge of our military forces. Urge them to the full realization that we are not fighting one war—we are fighting two wars—and that the enemy in the west (Japan) is growing stronger day by day because of our failure or inability to carry the fight to him, even as the enemy in the east (Germany) seems to have passed the zenith of his power.

JOE BURNS VERY ILL IN CHICAGO NAVAL HOSPITAL

W. Joe Burns, owner of the L. M. Butch Jewelry Co., who is now in Uncle Sam's navy, was quarantined in the Great Lakes naval training station hospital, Illinois, Thursday, for scarlet fever. Mrs. Burns in a telephone conversation Thursday evening learned that her husband is very ill.

Most of you," Chandler declared, "recall a suggestion in the speech of the Honorable Winston Churchill a fortnight ago in which he promised his own people—the British people—that when the European war was over their boys would be permitted to return home. We have no assurance that Russia will ever fight Japan...

"I am wholehearted in favor of helping the British and the Russians break the power of Hitler... but I would hate to envision a time when Germany is prostrate, as it is my belief that she will be eventually, that we should be left entirely alone except for the noble help of China, grand people without arms to fight the Japanese.

"It should be remembered too that many of the people of this country told the people of England that the German war was theirs prior to the Japanese attack against us at Pearl Harbor. I do not say that they will, but I know that they could say to us when they were no longer in danger that perhaps the Japanese war was our war."

Chandler expressed equal concern over the north Pacific.

"We have definite information," he said, "that the Japanese are actually building airfields on those two important points (Attu and Kiska) from which the Alaskan mainland and our Pacific ports can be bombed and our shipping further restricted."

At another point Chandler warned that the Aleutians could be used as fields for land-based Jap planes.

SHERIFF ASKED TO URGE ORGANIZATION INQUIRY

Sheriff Charles H. Radcliff has been asked by the Buckeye Sheriff's association to use his influence with legislators serving this county to support a resolution proposed in the Ohio assembly to have the attorney general investigate actions of the "American Majority" organization. The sheriff's organization says the "American Majority" group has been seeking to influence legislation contrary to rules covering lobbying.

WOMEN LEARN HOW TO AID IN DOWNING AXIS

COLUMBUS, April 16—Five hundred members of the Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs today had the solution to how they could valuably aid the war effort as told by Mary Barton Greco, national chief of the Women's Committee of the General Salvage Division of the War Production Board.

"It is just as important for you to be in the army in housewives' dresses," she declared, "as it is to be in the uniform of a WAAC or a WAVE."

She told the delegates, who were attending a two day council meeting of the organization, that they must salvage spiritually as well as materially.

"Passing the ammunition from your kitchen to our boys is your important duty," she said. "Salvage is salvation."

Circleville was represented at the meeting by Miss Margaret Rooney, incoming president of the Monday club.

21,000 tons in a sinking condition. That raised to six the number of Japanese ships sunk or damaged off the coast of New Guinea this week.

In the latest attack, which is still continuing, two 8,000-ton vessels were heavily blasted, while one 5,000-ton merchantman was so seriously damaged that it had to be beached. Earlier this week three 7,000-ton Jap ships were knocked out by allied bombers.

Bases Hammered

As their comrades hammered Japanese shipping and airbases, combat veterans of the southwest Pacific air force sent a message to America emphasizing anew the position taken by Gen. Douglas MacArthur—that airpower, rather than seapower, will decide the eventual outcome of the war in that arena.

They recalled the lessons of Midway, the Coral sea and the Bismarck sea, in which land-based aircraft proved their superiority over naval forces.

The most significant statement in their message was that air power, rather than sea power, is America's as well as Australia's first line of defense.

Axis Resisting

Meanwhile allied ground forces in Tunisia were encountering fierce resistance from German and Italian armies trapped in the northeastern corner of that mountainous country.

A communiqué from Gen.

Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters said that enemy counter-attacks are being repelled successfully in bitter fighting which has developed on the front west of Enfidaville, between the Nazis and advancing French Moroccan troops and around Medjez-El-Bab.

To the north, the British first army clung firmly to positions won in its advance against the axis-held base of Tunis against stubborn enemy opposition. Axis counter-attacks were beaten off and high ground held by the first army only 25 miles from Tunis remained in allied hands.

Many members of his congregation paid their respects during the day, and members of the Lutheran Brotherhood called at the home Thursday evening to sing "Happy Birthday To You".

PAROLE BOARD REFUSES PLEA OF KILPATRICK

COLUMBUS, April 16—The case of Walter Kilpatrick, former 29-year-old president of Cedarville college who is serving a one to ten year sentence in the Ohio penitentiary for the felonious assault of a seven-year-old Toledo girl, today was continued until April, 1944, by the Ohio pardon and parole commission.

The commission asked that his case be investigated and that he be given a psychiatric examination.

No decision was given on the parole of Mrs. Agnes B. Dickinson, who is serving a sentence at the Marysville Reformatory for alleged embezzlement. Mrs. Dickinson, who became widely known throughout the state for her taxpayers' suit against various departments of state to recover funds she charged were owed the people, was a former Columbus attorney, now disbarred.

The commission heard 129 cases, granted paroles to 30, and conditional releases to five, in the Ohio penitentiary. Eight inmates were restored to parole.

"We must carry the fight to the enemy," Chandler insisted. "Without the power to carry the fight to him we have no choice except ultimate subjugation to his wishes. MacArthur and his men and allies in Australia must be supported by the people of the United States and they must be supported now adequately and in force."

"We must not dally. We may not be saved from the narrow escapes we have had during the last few years."

The Kentucky senator voiced the the startling possibility that Russia and England may leave the United States to fight the Pacific war alone once the war in Europe is over.

OPEN LETTERS

TO EVERY ONE

ALL: We on the home front face one of the most personal challenges of this war to date. That challenge is whether or not we are willing to sacrifice to a sufficient extent to lend our government our money within the next few weeks. To do the job, you and I, and everyone we know, are going to have to dig in our socks — to dig out some of those dollars we have salted away for a rainy day — as well as to take a good hunk out of this month's pay check. This is a job that has to be done. Sure, we on the home front are feeling the pinch of war. We have gasoline rationing, food rationing, higher taxes and a lot of other little discomforts. But they are nothing compared with the agonies faced daily by our men — men from this community among them — out there on the fighting fronts of the world. Yes, we know that this constant demand for more money out of our pockets and out of our paychecks — an increasing amount each month — is monotonous. But so is sitting in a foxhole or lying in a slit-trench day after day, slogging through the hell of a humid jungle or that of Sahara sand. Our sons, friends, brothers, husbands and others we know are doing that for us. They are facing something more terrible than cutting down on a few things that we once thought were essentials to the American standard of living in order to do it, too. As Secretary Morgenthau has said: "Shall we be more tender with our dollars than with the lives of our sons?" The Second War Loan is an order to the home front to go on a new offensive. Your dollars are the weapons in this attack. They will make possible the passing of the ammunition to those boys up there in the front lines. To win this war is going to cost more and more money — and more and more lives. But the price of freedom is high. We can not; we dare not let our fighting men down. You can't let George do this for you. You must pitch in with your dollars. Just keep in mind those boys in the front lines. They give their lives — you lend your money! Don't wait for someone to come around and ask you to do it. Do it today — and do it until you feel worthy of them.

TO RALLY PLANNERS

FRIENDS: The Second War Loan rally last Monday evening was one of the most successful undertakings ever staged here, and congratulations are due every one and every organization participating in planning the celebration. Carroll D. Alcott, Cincinnati's Far Eastern observer, was greatly impressed by arrangements for the meeting, by Circleville's cooperative spirit, and by other things which he noted during his short visit here. He made an excellent plug for Circleville and Pickaway county in his broadcast which covered a large part of the nation after his ad-

Inside WASHINGTON

Will Russ Fight Japs
After Germany Quits?

That's Chief Question
Now Puzzling Capital

By CHARLES P. STEWART

• UNCLE SAM naturally would greatly like to have Russia go to the war with Japan with no further delay. American Navy men, who are most immediately interested, agree, however, that the Soviets' inclination to stall off hostilities with the Mikado is perfectly understandable. The Muscovites are recognized as sufficiently engaged with the Nazis to fancy taking on the Japs, too, just at present.

Washington nevertheless is exceedingly curious to get an inkling as to what the Kremlin's policy will be toward Nippon if and when Germany is knocked out of the box.

It is quite comprehensible that that's the principal question President Roosevelt yearns to put to Premier Stalin, at the conference between them for which F. D. R. has voiced such urgent hopes. It scarcely is to be expected that Josef will give an unqualified answer just now. If he did, to the effect that Russia later will align itself, it would amount to an immediate Soviet war declaration against Tokyo. Still, he might, by trifling oral infection or the flicker of an eyelid, convey the desired hint, and our White House tenant is pretty crafty at interpreting them — correctly or otherwise.

Russia and Japan are traditional rivals and enemies, to be sure. It shouldn't be difficult to "sic" the former onto the Oriental island folk, if the prospect of licking them seems good.

But will it seem so? The Japs will be in pretty good fighting shape. They haven't succeeded in beating the numerically vastly superior Chinese, but they have gained possession of a lot of China's resources and are better equipped than the Russians along the eastern Asiatic coast, since that is where they have concentrated while the Soviets have been tied up farther to the westward.

It is a popular assumption that Japan, while scrappy out of proportion to the number of its warriors, is not intrinsically very strong.

Its population is formidable, but that has been one of its difficulties. It has been so large that its limited insular production of raw materials has not sufficed to keep it fully supplied. Now, though, it is fairly well provided for by its captured mainland.

If the United States Army could be transported bodily to the western Pacific, it unquestionably could make a rapid clean-up, but that is an impracticability; it is too far away. It will have to be a naval campaign — unless air forces develop beyond anything we are familiar with yet.

And the Japs have got a fairly average navy — well armed and well manned.

The U. S. outclasses them at short range, but what we will have to do will be to send across the Pacific into their own waters. It will be inconvenient, to say the least. They will stay home and their defense will be an OFF-ense to us.

The BLIND MAN'S SECRET

by RICHARD HOUGHTON

WRITTEN FOR AND RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSOCIATION

CHAPTER TWENTY-FIVE
"WHAT'S THIS?" asked the surprised driver of the car, drawing his dark eyebrows together as he studied the radio tube in his hand.

The two women, with their wrists tied behind their backs, helpless to snatch what seemed to them a priceless military secret, stared at each other in bewilderment. They had assumed that he knew this glass-and-metal gadget was the reason for their kidnapping.

"It's just some kind of a doo-funny," said Clementine hastily. "The hat maker stuck it in there to make the shape of the hat."

"Do-funny nothing! I know an old radio tube when I see it!" Agatha was nodding quickly. "That's it! An old tube. I always wondered what they did with old radio tubes."

The dark eyes gave her a scornful, bloodshot glance. The heavy jaw of the kidnaper slid slightly to one side. "You wouldn't try to get funny with me, would you?"

"What an absurd idea!" Agatha was frowning. "I always was kinda curious about women's hats." She picked up Clementine's headgear again. "Wouldn't be no use at all in the rain."

Careless of breakage, he dropped the radio tube onto the seat beside him. Agatha's heart almost stopped.

His clumsy fingers were exploring the lining of the hat again. He grinned over the back of the front seat at his breathless passengers and bent attentively over the shining glass and metal object. "Don't look like it's an old tube. Looks to me like a new one. Kinda funny shape. Don't think I've seen one like it before."

"I hope you're enjoying yourself," said Clementine. He grunted. A moment later he dropped the hat onto the floor in disgust. "Thought maybe you'd hid a letter in that hole." He picked up the radio tube again, swung around with his back to his prisoners and bent attentively over the shining glass and metal object. "Don't look like it's an old tube. Looks to me like a new one. Kinda funny shape. Don't think I've seen one like it before."

He turned off the dashboard radio — which had only been

TO EVERY ONE

ALL: We on the home front face one of the most personal challenges of this war to date. That challenge is whether or not we are willing to sacrifice to a sufficient extent to lend our government our money within the next few weeks. To do the job, you and I, and everyone we know, are going to have to dig in our socks — to dig out some of those dollars we have salted away for a rainy day — as well as to take a good hunk out of this month's pay check. This is a job that has to be done. Sure, we on the home front are feeling the pinch of war. We have gasoline rationing, food rationing, higher taxes and a lot of other little discomforts. But they are nothing compared with the agonies faced daily by our men — men from this community among them — out there on the fighting fronts of the world. Yes, we know that this constant demand for more money out of our pockets and out of our paychecks — an increasing amount each month — is monotonous. But so is sitting in a foxhole or lying in a slit-trench day after day, slogging through the hell of a humid jungle or that of Sahara sand. Our sons, friends, brothers, husbands and others we know are doing that for us. They are facing something more terrible than cutting down on a few things that we once thought were essentials to the American standard of living in order to do it, too. As Secretary Morgenthau has said: "Shall we be more tender with our dollars than with the lives of our sons?" The Second War Loan is an order to the home front to go on a new offensive. Your dollars are the weapons in this attack. They will make possible the passing of the ammunition to those boys up there in the front lines. To win this war is going to cost more and more money — and more and more lives. But the price of freedom is high. We can not; we dare not let our fighting men down. You can't let George do this for you. You must pitch in with your dollars. Just keep in mind those boys in the front lines. They give their lives — you lend your money! Don't wait for someone to come around and ask you to do it. Do it today — and do it until you feel worthy of them.

It is a popular assumption that Japan, while scrappy out of proportion to the number of its warriors, is not intrinsically very strong.

Its population is formidable, but that has been one of its strengths. It has been so large that its limited insular production of raw materials has not sufficed to keep it fully supplied. Now, though, it is fairly well provided for by its captured mainland.

Will Russ Fight Japs
After Germany Quits?

That's Chief Question
Now Puzzling Capital

By CHARLES P. STEWART

UNCLE SAM naturally would greatly like to have Russia go to the mat with Japan with no further delay. American Navy men, who are most immediately interested, agree, however, that the Soviets' inclination to stall off hostilities with the Mikado is perfectly understandable. The Muscovites are recognized as sufficiently engaged with the Nazis to fancy taking on the Japs, too, just at present.

Washington nevertheless is exceedingly curious to get an inkling as to what the Kremlin's policy will be toward Nippon if and when Germany is knocked out of the box.

It is quite comprehensible that that's the principal question President Roosevelt's years to put to Premier Stalin, at the conference between them for which F. D. R. has voiced such urgent hopes. It scarcely is to be expected that Josef Stalin will give an unequivocal answer just now. If he did, to the effect that Russia later will align itself, it would amount to an immediate Soviet war declaration against Tokyo. Still, he might, by trifling oral infection or the flicker of an eyelid, convey the desired hint, and our White House tenant is pretty crafty at interpreting them — correctly or otherwise.

Russia and Japan are traditional rivals and enemies, to be sure. It shouldn't be difficult to "sic" the former onto the Oriental island folk, if the prospect of licking them seems good.

But will it seem so? The Japs will be in pretty good fighting shape. They haven't succeeded in beating the numerically vastly superior Chinese, but they have gained possession of a lot of China's Answer: The diagnosis of Addison's disease is usually not difficult. The patient with weakness, low blood pressure, loss of weight, a brown discoloration of the skin — especially on the exposed parts — is a suspected case. If there is pigmentation in the mouth and under the tongue, it makes it more certain inasmuch as most cases are caused by tuberculosis. Putting a small section of skin under the microscope and the determination of changes in the potassium and sodium content of the blood are quite final.

City Represented At District Library Meet

Local Librarian Presents Fine Program

South-Central District of the Ohio Library association conducted a very successful meeting Thursday in the Eastern Star temple, Chillicothe, Daniel R. Pfloutz, Circleville librarian, arranging an outstanding program for the Spring session. At the meeting from Circleville were Mr. Pfloutz, Miss Wilmina Phebus, Miss Jessie Cummings and Mrs. Florence Jones Rector of the library staff; the Rev. C. L. The excellent luncheon at noon was served at the Town House, administrative reports being presented at this time.

When the afternoon session convened, Mrs. Depew Head, executive chairman of the Martha Kinney Cooper, Ohioana Library, interested the large group with her fine talk on books in general. Eavalan Fischer, librarian of Woodsfield public library, discussed simplified library procedures. The last talk of the afternoon was by Miss Caroline Holmes, librarian of Lockbourne Army Air Base, who told interesting details of her work as she substituted for Captain Joseph Schroeder, morale officer of the base, who was unable to keep his appointment as speaker.

Willing Workers' Class

Willing Workers' class of Pontius United Brethren church met Thursday at the home of Mrs. Wayne Martin, Circleville township. Mrs. A. W. Bosworth, president, led the devotions and had charge of the business session. It was decided to send Easter greetings to a number of sick people of the community.

A very interesting Bible study was given by Miss Edwina Holderman, each member of the class responding with references read from the Bible.

The keynote of the program presented by Mrs. Creton Kraft was "Easter." Mrs. Floy Brobst presented a paper, "Dogwood Blossoms", and Mrs. Nettie McCord, a poem. "Easter" was the subject of a selection by Mrs. Elton Richards. Mrs. Forrest Croman interested the group with a story and Mrs. Sterley Croman read "Proofs of the Resurrection." Mrs. Kraft closed her program with group singing.

A lovely lunch was served by the hostess to 16 members and visitors. The May meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Forrest Croman.

Peter and John in Gethsemane

HIGHLIGHTS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

BY NEWMAN CAMPBELL

The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for April 18 is Matthew 26:36-46; John 18:10-12, the Golden Text being Matthew 26:41, "Watch and pray, that ye enter not into temptation."

THE LAST night of our Lord's life on earth as a man among other men is the subject of today's lesson. It brings our hearts even though we know it had to be, and that the greatest of all great good came from it.

Jesus and His disciples went to a place called Gethsemane, the name of which means "oil-press." It was not simply an oil-press, however, at John calls it a garden or orchard. It is now a small enclosure lying where the three roads across the Mount of Olives branch off at its base and between the central and southern roads which lead both to Bethany.

He left the rest of the disciples, and taking with Him Peter, James and John, He began to be sorrowful and very heavy."

To these three who were closest to Him, Jesus said, "My soul is exceeding sorrowful, even unto death: tarry ye here, and watch with Me."

Prays to His Father
He went a little farther off and fell on His face and prayed, "O My Father, if it be possible, let this cup pass from Me: nevertheless not as I will, but as Thou wilt."

Returning to the three friends Jesus found them asleep, and to Peter He said, "What, could ye not watch with Me one hour?"

"Watch and pray, that ye enter not into temptation: the spirit indeed is willing, but the flesh is weak."

He was not angry, you see, as an ordinary man would have been. He did not rage at them that they could not realize His deep sorrow and the heaviness of His spirits and do what they could to help Him. His rebuke was gentle, but how alone He must have felt.

He went away again, praying, "O My Father, if this cup may not pass away from Me, except I drink it, Thy will be done." And in martyrdom.

He Prayed

He had a little farther off and fell on His face and prayed, "O My Father, if it be possible, let this cup pass from Me: nevertheless not as I will, but as Thou wilt."

The traitor, Judas, came and gave Him that false kiss, and to Peter He said, "What, could ye not watch with Me one hour?"

"Watch and pray, that ye enter not into temptation: the spirit indeed is willing, but the flesh is weak."

He was not angry, you see, as an ordinary man would have been. He did not rage at them that they could not realize His deep sorrow and the heaviness of His spirits and do what they could to help Him. His rebuke was gentle, but how alone He must have felt.

He went away again, praying, "O My Father, if this cup may not pass away from Me, except I drink it, Thy will be done." And in martyrdom.

At this juncture the expectant crowd began to suspect that maybe Joe knew all the time that the coast guard wouldn't let him jump.

Banker Kemp was a good sport, however, and bought the $100,000 bond.

With much fanfare, Engel started for the river yesterday afternoon in a big red, white and blue bus. On its side was painted the sign, "Joe Engel Headed for River." After circling through the business district several times, the bus, now followed by a big crowd in cars and on foot, headed for the river.

But there coast guardsmen brought the stunt to a halt, announcing that Lieut. A. F. Hanse, captain of the port of Chattanooga, had forbidden it as a violation of the laws governing the risking of life and limb. A squad of city officers also was on hand to stop it if the coast guard didn't.

At this juncture the expectant crowd began to suspect that maybe Joe knew all the time that the coast guard wouldn't let him jump.

Banker Kemp was a good sport, however, and bought the $100,000 bond.

With much fanfare, Engel started for the river yesterday afternoon in a big red, white and blue bus. On its side was painted the sign, "Joe Engel Headed for River." After circling through the business district several times, the bus, now followed by a big crowd in cars and on foot, headed for the river.

But there coast guardsmen brought the stunt to a halt, announcing that Lieut. A. F. Hanse, captain of the port of Chattanooga, had forbidden it as a violation of the laws governing the risking of life and limb. A squad of city officers also was on hand to stop it if the coast guard didn't.

Pickaway County Blackout Test Proves Unqualified Success

MAJOR MILLER VOICES PRAISE OF CITIZENS

ALERTING RECORDS SET

Only Few Minor Violations
Reported By 800 In Working Units

Pickaway county's blackout test Thursday evening was an unqualified success.

"The best I have seen anywhere," said Major Charles Miller, observer for the U. S. army, who has supervision of the Ohio area.

"Fine, practically perfect," was the expression of Ray Lewis, coordinating officer for the Ohio Defense Council.

"I found nothing wrong anywhere, and I looked for it hard," said Don Parks, communications officer for the Ohio Council.

Some 800 Defense Council members sprang into action everywhere in the county when the first alert was flashed from Columbus at 7:55 p. m. On the second warning, which was received about 15 minutes later the county went black and remained that way until the all clear signal was flashed about 9 o'clock.

Citizens everywhere cooperated fully and fewer than a half dozen violations, all minor, were reported by the working units.

Seventeen communities in the county were alerted by telephone, all except three of them over long distance lines. That the entire county can be warned quickly was demonstrated by the Thursday night test. The first warning, which always is the most difficult, required 13 minutes, but six minutes of this time were required to reach Orient through the Columbus and Harrisburg exchanges.

The difficulty was due to the use of the dial phones in the region and the fact that the interruption of existing communications is not mechanically possible. The second warning of all the communities required four minutes, the third required three, the next required three and the all clear was flashed in four minutes. Sheriff Charles Radcliff put through the calls as the county alerting officer.

Major Miller in a State Highway Patrol car driven by Corporal Brunn was on constant tour during the entire period. He frequently commented on the thoroughness of the blackout and the fine cooperative spirit of the citizens.

Motorists were stopped everywhere in the county during the blackout and complied with all requests without protest. Ned Hardin, of Sheriff Radcliff's auxiliary police organization, stopped a car in which rode a young man and his girl friend. "You are in a blackout zone," the motorist was told. "Please pull to the side of the road and put out your lights." "Fine," said the youth as he complied with the order. "Then he called to Hardin. "How long will this last?" he asked. "About 20 minutes," was the answer. "Is that all?" complained the youth.

Lancaster branch of the State Highway Patrol auxiliary police sent 40 men into the county to assist the Pickaway unit in patrolling all highways entering into the county. These men were without blackout experience and the County Council granted their request that they be permitted to participate for the practice.

John D. Hummel was in charge of the county control center and George Foresman was in command of the city's control center. The commanders and their staffs did an outstanding job.

SPIRITUAL DECLINE OF NATION UNDER ATTACK

Lenten services are being conducted each evening at Calvary Evangelical church, the Rev. Joe Denton of Akron being the preacher. At his first service the Rev. Mr. Denton declared that "modern day professors of Christianity" are allowing the moral and spiritual decline of the nation.

The minister said that 27,000,000 American children and young people received no religious education at all; that Jewish parents give 335 hours of religious instruction each year to their children, Catholics 200 hours and Protestants 24 hours.

ARE you one of those people who are not sick, yet still feel bad? Are you frequently tired and so dragged out life hardly seems worth while? Are you inclined to feel nervous and irritable; appetite poor? If this is so, Pursin may be the answer.

One of the foremost laboratories of the country has developed a tonic called Pursin for people in such condition. A remarkable preparation which works two basic ways to help nature build up strength and energy.

First, Pursin is rich in iron. And you know how important it is for your system to get sufficient iron. Second, Pursin contains precious Vitamins B and G. These vitamins help to stimulate appetite—aid digestion—promote better assimilation. That's why you eat more and get more good from the foods you eat.

If you are feeling below par because your system may lack sufficient iron or Vitamins B and G, do this. Go to your drug store today and ask for Pursin. Take it regularly and see if it doesn't help you feel joyfully alert again. A McKesson Product.
